

In Between

By Annakin

You are on your way over the top
You take it in at once
The night it was yours before you wake
The night it was yours before you wake
Your day is back-breaking work
You can't escape the hurt

In this moment and in this world
You kill the pain away
You put something in between
You put something in between
And if the soothing moment comes
It's like a swing it won't stay long

I hear the sound of bareness
In your voice lies solace
You say "my next life will be better"
You say "my next life will be better"
"What if I won't be there" "you never know"
We'll pour our souls together
