

Destination Beyond

Lyrics by ann kathrin lüthi

Are you still waiting for vibrations
To end the craving for a feeling?
You know you cannot stop the falling
You never safely reach a healing

Say did the truth hit you too hard
Say did it make you feel strange at heart?
You offered me a nice surprise
The day you lifted your disguise

You have to move if you want to walk
You have to find the right time to talk
Don't turn a blind eye at her heart
You skip that part

I saw no end
Everything seemed to transcend
It's like running along a bend
With my destination beyond

You always want to be strong for the weak
You jump into icy water head over heels
Remember what will soothe your aching
One day it will stop your earth from shaking

You are still waiting for vibrations
To end the craving for a feeling
You know you cannot stop the falling
You never safely reach a healing