

Torch Song

Lyrics by Ann Kathrin Lüthi

Another space ship crosses the sky
It is fast but I can see it with my eyes
The night will back me up in this intention
Like a lover my defender

This could be strong I want to be your torch song
This is where I belong
But the fox steals away with his prey
Afraid of getting caught and robbed at the same time

This is not what I feel
This is no church to me
It's too vague to be real
And opposed to what I believe

Another shot-down of a plea
You're digging loopholes you're blinding me
Of course I'll back you up in your intention
Like a lover your defender

Another starfish reaches the shore
I am complaisant but I want more
I won't back you up anymore in this convention
Like a lover your defender
