

The Wolf and the Sun

The moon rises first to show you the way
He always keeps watch over my day
You follow your pale brother
You're strong and you're bright like no other

You are precious like a diamond
Towards the gates of night
You drag your fiery island
You're the last remainder of light

There at the dusky gates
The wolf he watches and waits
And then he tries to devour you
To let darkness reign

The sky's red but you've escaped the evil wolf
After the stars have healed your wounds
I will meet you again at dawn
Where an even brighter day is born

Sometimes I believe the wolf has caught you
There's so much evil in this place
And the sun we look upon to
Has long sent her last rays
