

Behind the Curtain

Your words are lying better than your eyes ever will
Don't you know that people feel it when the truth is killed

You never stop to answer back you're convinced to outwit us all
You get away with everything on the way to your free fall

I just hope you won't get lonely
With your double-minded soul
And your earth will always be turning
Save what you don't need
Save all you can't keep
And never delete my love

I see behind the curtain now i see the struggle you are in
All the things that should be certain are shaky like a sin

I hide myself when no one knows
I keep cool but I hope you will find me