

Home

I take off my armor
So you can open me up
There is no alarm no alarm
In case i get robbed

Soon no one will remember
That we were here

You read my reaction
Tell me how is this to top
You count all my fractions
I do not have a backup

Soon no one will remember
That we were here

That we were here
For all those years
This was the home where we learned how to shake off all of our fears

This was my sanctuary
For all those years
This was the place where we learned how to dry all of our tears

These walls don't reflect us
No more than a shell
Keep turning in my direction
On this empty carousel